1. The device must be charged (using the built-in rechargeable feature) for 8-10 hours prior to use.

To charge, slide the Charging Button to where the Indicator Light should be on. If your device is equipped with a built-in charger then push the Charging Plugs into the 110v power supply outlet. If your device has a separate charging plug, then plug the correct end into the device and the plug into the 110v power supply. The Charging Indicator Light should be on to indicate successful charging. After charging is complete, push back the Charging Button inward (built-in chargers), or remove the charging plug (separate charging plug). A fully charged device should hold a charge for up to 3 months, contingent on use with flashlight and stun features.

WARNING: Do not attempt to use or power the device while charging, as this could cause damage to the electric outlets and possibly result in fire.

2. For flashlight models: To operate the LED flashlight of the device, slide the Safety Switch up one position and press down the Control Button.
3. To operate the Stun Gun of the device, slide the Safety Switch up to the top position and press down the Control Button.
WARNING: Recommended shock time on assailant should not exceed two to three seconds on the body. Do not shock the assailant on the head, heart or in the area of any other major organs.
A touch of the device, within the probes, will startle the assailant. Depending on the voltage of your device, contact on assailant for any further periods of time can cause muscle contractions, cause the assailant to fall, lose balance, lose muscle control, and other immobilizing reactions. This device does not cause permanent damage and the user will not suffer a charge back when using on assailant.
4. Keep the device away from moist/wet areas/surfaces and in areas with extreme heat or extreme cold.
